

Communication is a vital component to gaining support from parents.

1. Have a regular communication system in place
2. Always be up to date with the information
3. Be a consistent communicator
4. Set up a time, each week, where the parents can be involved in what goes on with their children. Football example: On walk through days, allow them on the field so they can see and learn what their children are learning.□

Yes, it is tough, it will take some time, but the payoff is incredible.

Work hard, work smart
